1 (Commencement of proceedings) 2 3 Okay. Good afternoon. THE COURT: This is 4 Magistrate Judge Wettre. We are on the record in CommScope 5 versus Rosenberger. It's 19-cv-15962. 6 And may I take appearances now starting with 7 plaintiff's counsel. MR. SPONZILLI: Thank Your Honor. It's Edward 8 9 Sponzilli of the firm of Norris McLaughlin, local counsel to 10 the plaintiff CommScope. 11 THE COURT: Good afternoon, Mr. Sponzilli. 12 MR. SPONZILLI: Good afternoon, ma'am. 13 MR. KAHNKE: Your Honor, also on behalf of 14 plaintiff CommScope, from Faegre Drinker, this is Randy 15 Kahnke. With me are my colleagues Harmony Mappes, Tyler 16 Young, Lauren Linderman, and Rachel Cardwell. 17 THE COURT: Okay. Good afternoon to all of you. MR. KAHNKE: Good afternoon. 18 19 And for the Rosenberger defendants? 20 MR. OLIVER: Good afternoon, Your Honor. This is 21 Matthew Oliver from Lowenstein Sandler. With me is my 22 colleague from Lowenstein, Michelle Goldman. And you've 23 heard Mr. Gindler is on as well, and he will introduce his 2.4 team. 25 THE COURT: Okay. Good afternoon, Mr. Oliver and

Ms. Goldman. 1 2 MR. GINDLER: Hello, this is David Gindler from 3 Milbank, representing the Rosenberger defendants and 4 Northwest Instruments Inc. And with me are my colleagues 5 John Lu, Kim Goldberg, Bradley Hershon, and Haley Ling. THE COURT: Okay. Good afternoon to all of you. 6 7 And for the individual defendants? MS. FELTON: Good afternoon. It's Jane Felton with 8 9 Skoloff & Wolfe, on behalf of defendants Janet Javier and 10 Robert Cameron. 11 THE COURT: Okay. Good afternoon, Ms. Felton. 12 MS. FELTON: Good afternoon. 13 THE COURT: And for CellMax? 14 MR. PINCUS: Yes, I'm Mark Pincus from Pincus LLC. 15 Okay. Good afternoon. THE COURT: 16 All right. So I received a joint letter from the 17 parties identifying mainly three issues that they wanted to 18 raise with the Court, and I've thoroughly reviewed the letter 19 and have some thought on each item. 20 Let me just ask a miscellaneous question, though, 21 pertaining to CellMax, because I noted in one portion of 22 CommScope's submission that CommScope indicated that it had 23 not received any document production for CellMax yet, so I 2.4 just wanted to inquire as to the status of that. 25 Mr. Pincus?

focus on what they truly need in order to complete this process.

THE COURT: Right. And I do understand very well

6 that were already contemplated. But they're -- they're more that phenomenon. A party in Rosenberger's position is not so dead-set against an extension of time to complete depositions

7 concerned about evolving discovery requests. And, you know,

frankly, on the second issue we'll address, there is a

9 | little -- a little flavor of that.

So let me say by way of guidance that I would be willing to give some extra time for discovery so as not to impose hardship and pushing you through an unrealistic schedule. But it's not for the purpose of great new ideas and new requests for production and new interrogatories.

I would very seriously contemplate that in adopting any schedule you propose, that I would put language in there about no new written discovery requests without leave of Court, you know, just as some kind of policing mechanism.

I also regularly -- I know parties don't like it, I didn't like it as a lawyer -- with a case like this, my stock phrase is "It may not be neat and clean." You may have to take a deposition. Just, you know, come to the Court and say, geez, this opened up an area that, you know, we really need documents on, and we'd be prejudiced if we didn't get it. And there may have to be some supplemental productions.

And then people may have to be redeposed. Hopefully, in this Zoom deposition environment, that's less of a hardship. Maybe it won't be. But I do not want to extend discovery only to widen I feel like this case is plenty broad enough as it is. So that's just a general, you know, view of how I'm looking at the scope. But, again, I've got to be fair. And particularly, CommScope, if there is information that is not just an inkling that there might be something more afoot, but actually you have found something, and based upon that, you want something more -- you know, a little bit broader and very specific, and, you know, as we morph into the second subject about the suspicious components, I have a lot of questions about that, because I don't -- I don't have anything explaining to me I just -- that's never been explained to me. Rosenberger's giving some more innocuous explanation, and yet I'm being asked to order a tremendous amount of very intrusive discovery between competitors. I feel very uncomfortable with that on that record. that's just a preview on the second issue that maybe there will be a motion to compel by letter eventually, but it's got to have more than what's in that letter right now.
